HEAT RELIEF

The huge willows stretching out over the Gull River were popular jumping off points for youths escaping last week's heat wave. Swimming holes throughout the county were busy places last week, and Minden's Rotary Park seemed to draw more than its share of people out looking for a bit of shade and a cool place to swim.

Black liquor's no time bomb, study proves

by Russ Duhaime

Black liquor does not deserve its growing reputation as a toxic time bomb, the latest scientific data illustrates.

As long as people don't start drinking it straight up, there's no reason to worry about the dioxin content, a report prepared for the Ministry of Health indicates. The dioxin content of black liquor "does not warrant concern to human health."

Tests also show that use of this dust suppressant does not increase the level of metals in roadside vegetation or ditches.

This information is published in a ministry report, entitled "A study of Dust Suppressants in Ontario." The report, which contains information on the toxicity of the various dust suppressants in use in Ontario, will be distributed to municipalities later this week.

Haliburton county municipalities have been confronted by residents who insist that black liquor is an environmental threat. Minden council reluctantly bent to the pressure and suspended the use of this product on Soyers Lake Road.

Black liquor is a by-product of the pulp and paper industry. The Domtar mill in Trenton provides it for free to municipalities to use to control dust and bind the surface of gravel roads.

The Soyers Lake suspension is viewed by council as a test project to see what happens to untreated gravel roads. The residents who insisted on this suspension were also to provide council with further information on the toxicity of the product, as well as some alternatives.

Two weeks ago, council began hearing complaints from Soyers Lake residents about flying dust from passing cars. Although there was still no solid evidence of any environmental threat, council still refused to resume the use of the dust suppressant.

"People on Soyers Lake want confirmation that the stuff is safe," Councillor Jean Anthon reported back to council last Thursday.

Deputy Reeve Lewis Stevens agreed. "Let's be responsible," he said. "Let's check this out."

Although the black liquor debate has been brewing in Minden for most of the summer, no one has bothered to call the ministry to find out what information it has on the product. If they had, they would have discovered the ministry has now completed a detailed scientific analysis of all the dust suppressants in use throughout the province.

The report uses a scale of zero to four to define toxicity levels of the projects, with zero being the least toxic. Black liquor's toxicity level is one.

The report describes black liquor (Domtar Road Binder) as a biodegradable, non-corrosive product that requires minimal protection for handling. It works by penetrating the road surface to a few centimetres and binding the road surface material into a crust. It dries to the touch within

Liquid is biodegradable, non-corrosive, requires minimal protection for handling 30 minutes and is fully cured within 24 hours. It can be driven over immediately after application.

The main concern expressed by Soyers Lake Road residents was over the presence of dioxins. According to the report, the dioxin levels in black liquor are only slightly higher than the limit for drinking water. "These guidelines are based on lifetime consumption of drinking 1.5 litres of water per day, and incorporate large safety factors." Since no one will be drinking 1.5 litres of black liquor per day, there is no reason for concern, the report says.

In their efforts to get Minden council to ban the use of black liquor, the Soyers Lake group pointed to a 1992 test that shows how it can harm Rainbow Trout. Bill Thompson, the ministry's senior environmental officer for Muskoka and Haliburton said these tests were done in response to a complaint from a member of the Soyers Lake Ratepayers Association.

For this test, trout were placed in a mixture of black liquor and water. At a concentration level of 0.4 per cent, half the fish were dead within 96 hours.

However, in order for a lake to approach a 0.4 per cent concentration, thousands of gallons of black liquor would have to be poured in.

The possibility of black liquor spreading from the roadways to lakes is largely dismissed by the ministry's report. It says the only component of black liquor that will spread easily is the sodium. Sodium is the most mobile content of black liquor, the report states. However, the amount of sodium from the application of black liquor is about 25 per cent of what you get from normal winter road salting.

Thompson says municipalities have been instructed to abide by a rigid set of guidelines for the application of black liquor. He says they are not allowed to let it pool or run off. In particular, he said they are to keep it way from any watercourse.

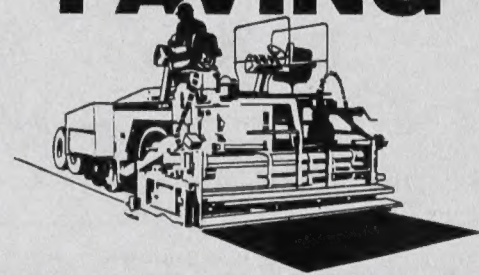

Thompson said his office received many complaints when municipalities began to use black liquor on their roads. He said all the townships were then advised that they are being closely monitored. This summer, Thompson said he has heard very few complaints.

No way to recoup expenses board told

Contractor can't be blamed for school construction delays architect says

by Andy Holloway

Local trustees found out they have little recourse to make up the money they'll be spending due to the delayed finish of Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

Doug Allen of the architecture firm which designed the school's addition said there is little the board can do to recoup the additional costs caused by the school not being ready to open in September. The asbestos woes and the late approval by the Ministry of Education were the main causes for the delay and neither is the fault of the main contractor.

There were also some smaller delays caused by supplies not being delivered on time, but Allen said it would be hard to prove it was the contractor's fault.

"The good news is I think the work is going very well, the quality of construction is very good and the contractors on site are ambitious," said Allen.

"The bad news is that it is behind schedule and there is a long list of reasons for that."

Tim Casey (Dysart) asked whether the original tender misled contractors into believing that all of the asbestos had been accounted for which it obviously wasn't. Allen said the tender could have been read that way, but that contractors should always be aware that testing for asbestos is never complete. The firm looked at all of the plans available, the original is from 1940, but that they were not complete.

Due to the delay, the school board ratified an agreement with Minden council to use the community centre as a makeshift school until the Stouffer school is ready to use, which is expected to be the first week of October. The school itself will not be completed until December.

"When that school is done it will be one dandy school," said Education Director Brad Saunders.

In the meantime the board will use the community centre at a rental cost of $500 a week plus custodial costs and any increased energy costs. The original proposal by Minden was a flat $37,500 agreement, but that was for the entire complex and the board was only interested at the time in using the arena. The new deal is considerably cheaper and the board will occupy the community centre instead.

"The deal being proposed we felt we had to grasp at it to alleviate the fears of many parents in the area," said Saunders in explaining administration's haste in accepting the deal.

The new deal alleviates two main fears that parents had expressed. The first being the additional bussing for young children while the second concern was placing grade 6-8 students in a high school environment. Both problems have now been solved.

Saunders also praised the Minden community for coming to the aid of the school board. "It's a wonderful example of community cooperation."

Groups like the Scout and Girl Guide clubs and the line dancing group offered to give up their privileges to the community centre in order to allow Minden to make a deal. Dorothy Milne of the line dancing group told Minden councillor Jeanne Anthon that if it was a choice between education and line dancing, education wins easily.

The Guide/Scout movement sent a letter to the board stating their support and were thanked by the board.

History repeated

When travellers from Minden Germany arrived in town a few years ago, Friedrich Schutte, left, presented then Deputy Reeve Bern Berry with a book about his home town. Another group is expected to arrive next month when Berry will present them with a book on Minden's history.

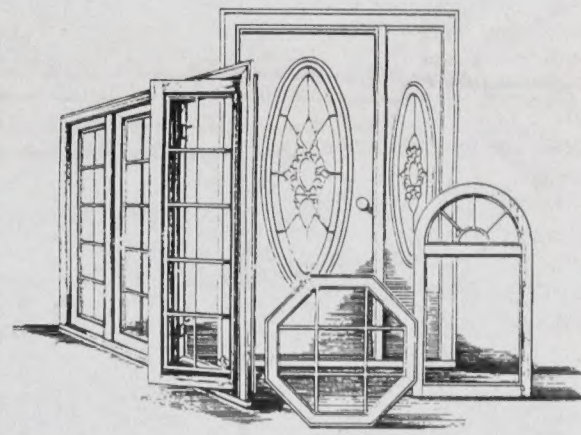

MPP criticizes NDP welfare reform policy

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville is fighting a provincial NDP policy again, this time it's social assistance reform.

The former NDP member released a paper criticizing the NDP for coming up with proposals without a clear direction on how to make the system effective.

Drainville said the NDP is setting up a "neo-conservative economic approach" and abandoning the traditional principles on which they were elected. While admitting the current welfare system does not work and needs to be overhauled, Drainville the NDP seems to be abandoning social justice for the poor.

Mural to greet high school entrants

by Andy Holloway

The high school will soon be a brighter place to attend classes thanks to a student/teacher cooperative effort to create a mural in the front entrance.

Redesigning the front entrance will improve the looks of the school and instill more pride in the students said principal Gary Brohman.

"We can make it more inviting for students and teachers," said Brohman. "It will also add a good flavour for the public when they enter the school."

The artistic design includes a large silk banner with the school's motto on it, designed by local artist Mary Wallace, as the centrepiece. In front of that will be potted plants which Brohman said will cut down on the potential for vandalism by putting space between students and the banner.

On either side of the banner will be student paintings depicting student involvement in school activities. The murals will be painted on gyprock which will be mounted onto the existing brick wall with the help of shop staff.

The entire piece will be paid for by the Student Activity Council and will be student maintained. Brohman said students will have a chance to prove the last word in the school's motto, "responsibility", is not just for show.

This was the second time the mural has come up for approval at the board. The first time it was deferred because trustees wanted to know all the details before approving the plan.

Brohman said the proposal would create a warm feeling for the school and that student ownership is a key for a school's success. He said it's important for students to feel like they are part of the school.

"It wasn't until I experienced a loss in my own family that I finally realized the importance of a funeral service."

A candid talk about funeral service with Kirsten L. Monk.

Kirsten L. Monk

"Although I grew up in the funeral service profession, I'll admit I wasn't involved much with the family business. I guess like many young people, I had other views on what was important."

"That all changed when a member of our extended family experienced a traumatic death. It was a very emotional time, but I think it finally made me realize why funeral service is so important."

"Not only is a funeral a chance to honor a life well lived, but it seems to pull families together like no other way I have seen. It gives each family member a special time to reflect, cry, laugh, and gain strength from one another."

"Occasionally we have families who think a traditional funeral may be too hard or unnecessary. But it's actually one of the healthiest ways of coming to grips with the loss of a loved one. Without it, the reality of death may not sink in until months or years later."

"We feel it's important for families to understand the value of a funeral. We know this because we've experienced losses too."

MEMBER ORDER OF THE GOLDEN RULE

J.O. (Jack) Jackson - 1921-1993

Jackson grew up with the community

Jack (J.O.) Jackson grew up with the village of Minden, actively participating in the community's development as a community leader and businessman.

Although Jackson was born in Bobcaygeon in 1921, he came to Minden a year later and, except for a few years in the Royal Canadian Air Force, this is where he stayed to raise a family and participate in the growth of the community. He attended school in the one-room schoolhouse which is now known as Archie Stouffer Elementary School. He worked for a variety of village businesses and started up a few of his own. He served on the municipal council and was an active member of many local organizations.

In recent years, Jackson was best known for his involvement with the Minden Curling Club. Here he served on the club's executive, as the president and as the ice maker. In fact, Jackson was involved with the curling club from the club's infancy in the early 1940s. He was around to see the construction of the village's first arena, a natural ice facility located where the municipal building now stands. He was instrumental in the club's move to the Quonset hut at the fairgrounds and, ultimately, to the modern building adjacent to the arena.

Jackson's first employment in the village was with Percy Britnell at his bake shop on Main Street. In his late teens he moved briefly to Lindsay to find employment as the dough maker at Graham's Bake Shop.

In 1942, Jackson was accepted into the Royal Canadian Air Force and was stationed in Saskatoon, where he became a flight training officer. He trained more than 40 young recruits and logged more than 2,000 hours of air time during his service with the air force.

It was during the war that Jackson met Jean, who would become his wife. Jean was serving in the Navy at the time, stationed at Naval training centre Cornwallis in Nova Scotia. The two were married on December 23, 1944, and honeymooned in Minden.

After the war, the Jacksons returned to Minden and together they ran the rural mail route for the area. In addition, Jackson worked part time for the Orillia Water Light and Power station on Minden's Gull River.

Minden was a very different place in those years. There were no street lights, no arena and no theater. Progress and development were just over the horizon, and Jackson would play a part in this.

In 1947 he started up a taxi service, Jack's Taxi, which was in operation for about two years. Many of his customers were the Ontario Hydro workers who were involved in the installation of a network of hydro lines throughout the county. Jackson eventually went to work as a stock keeper for Hydro, where he stayed for over 10 years.

In 1950, Jean's parents bought the grocery store on the main street, which operated as Jackson's Groceteria. Jean ran the store, which served the village for about three years, but Jack also helped out while still working full-time for Hydro.

In the late 1950s, Jackson gradually became involved in the home heating business, initially by helping to install furnaces for friends and later by providing a fuel distribution service, which he operated for about 10 years prior to his next career change. In 1985, Jackson took a real estate course and soon began working as an agent for Gary Vasey Real Estate.

In addition to his various careers, Jackson found time for a great deal of involvement in community organizations. He was a volunteer firefighter, a member of the Kinsmen and K-40, the Royal Canadian Legion, the real estate board and the Masonic Lodge. He was also an active supporter of St. Paul's Anglican Church and he sang in the church choir for about 30 years.

In 1961, Jackson was elected to his first of four one-year terms on Minden Council. His persistent lobbying was instrumental in the selection of this village as the site for Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home. He was also instrumental in the establishment of water rates for the village, eliminating the need to hire a consultant to perform this task.

Jackson passed away on Tuesday, August 17 in his 73rd year. He is survived by his wife Jean, his sister Peggy, sons Michael and Bill, daughter Judith Findeis, grandchildren Jessica Jackson, Jacob, Joseph and Katherine Findeis and stepfather Earl Hewitt. He is predeceased by a brother, Maxwell (Deac) Jackson.

Right: A young Jack Jackson trained flyers for combat.

Below: Jackson served four terms on Minden council. He's seen here with fellow councillors Charles Brandon, Robert Harvey and Lawrence Pritchard.

Taxes cause Somerville insurance costs to jump

by Jerry Grozelle

Somerville Township will be paying an additional $1,719.56 in taxes on its insurance premiums for the coming fiscal year.

Through the Rural Ontario Municipal Association (ROMA), the township's premium will be $25,369.56, plus taxes. The basic quote for one year's insurance coverage actually went down about $50.

Another insurance agent was invited to submit a quote but that agent indicated that if he hadn't responded by the deadline of August 23, a quote wouldn't be forthcoming. He didn't offer a quote by that date.

The current policy expires in September but council has asked ROMA if coverage can be extended until February of 1995. The reasoning is to have insurance coverage throughout the council's term of office and avoid going through the process of renegotiating the township's insurance needs every year.

At this time, it is unknown whether or not the insurance company would be willing to quote that far ahead.

Dock needs repair

More than 70 people have taken the time to fill out and send or deliver a form letter to the Somerville Township office. Residents and summer visitors are concerned about the condition of the public dock in Coboconk and they want it repaired.

The letter addresses a number of areas of concern by people who use the dock for swimming, fishing, mooring of boats overnight while travelling the Trent-Severn Waterway and other purposes.

The wooden dock has deteriorated to the point where many feel it is unsafe.

Council agrees that the dock is in need of repairs, if not complete replacement. But the fact is, the township doesn't have the funds to put into a project of that size at this time.

The estimated cost of rebuilding the dock is $90,000. It is in need of cribbing as well as replacement of the wooden structure.

"We've been replacing a few boards here and there," said Somerville deputy-reeve Jack MacDonald. He added that the township just doesn't have the kind of money it would take to do the repairs that are necessary.

"It is a tourist attraction and we are trying to keep it in as good repair as possible," MacDonald said.

Copies of the letters will be forwarded to federal government officials and agencies in the hopes that they can be persuaded to direct some funds towards refurbishing the dock.

For the time being, the area has been posted with signs warning people to use it at their own risk.

The letters started rolling in about two weeks ago but so far nobody has offered any suggestions on how to raise funds to repair the dock.

The property that the dock sits on is leased from the Trent-Severn Waterway.

Murray Hutchinson landed these two lunkers in his Maple Lake area garden. The secret to growing these giant zucchinis is in the fertilizer, says Hutchinson. He used turkey manure to sprout these three-foot monsters. He says others were almost this size within six weeks of planting.

Tory work ethics

Ontario's New Democrats may be desperate, but apparently not half so much as Tory leader Michael Harris.

In a shameless bid to gain political points, Harris proudly linked himself with a well-paid civil servant who has decided welfare is better than work. This highly publicized display serves to illustrate how little the Tory leader understands the value of work to an economy. By linking himself with this employee, he is telling workers across the province it's okay to voluntarily go on welfare.

The Toronto Housing Authority employee who earned $41,500 a year sat down beside Harris Tuesday to announce she was quitting her job so she could stay at home with her two children and collect welfare. Harris jumped at the opportunity to show how escalating taxes have made it pointless to work for a living, and he blamed the NDP government for driving people to take such drastic actions.

We agree the economy is still bad and Bob Rae's taxation policy makes things that much worse. However, we don't agree that welfare is the solution to our problems. Social assistance is a safety net for people who cannot find work. The program is funded with the taxes of working people, many of whom earn much less than $41,500.

If Harris really believes welfare is best, maybe he should give it a try.

Give it a rest

If black liquor is as bad as some Soyers Lake Road residents claim, why does the Ministry of Environment allow municipalities to spread it on their dirt roads?

The answer is simple: it's not as bad as they claim.

The residents are correct in their statement that the dust suppressant contains dioxin. However, current ministry tests show the levels to be so low that they would almost be passable for drinking water.

The ministry hired an engineering firm to examine the toxicity of all the dust suppressants in use in Ontario and Domtar's road binder was given a passing grade. They thoroughly examined the contents of black liquor and determined it carries no environmental risks if applied properly. Minden's roads crews have been trained in the application of this product and are well aware of how it can be used safely.

Black liquor is the product of choice in Minden because it is an inexpensive and effective means of controlling dust and reducing maintenance on gravel roads. Council suspended its use on Soyers Lake Road because residents said it might be dangerous. Hopefully, now that up-to-date information has become available on the product, this issue can finally be put to rest.

Mothers and daughters find safe shelter from the storm

Editor:

While vacationing at Stonehedge Farms on August 20, Barbara with her four-year-old daughter Amy and Audra with her five-year-old daughter Monika were enjoying their boat ride through Canning Lake into Lake Kashagawigamog. Suddenly a violent thunderstorm approached. With the sky closing in and flashing lightning around the decision was made to find shelter immediately.

Ingoldsby General Store was the closest spot. The hospitality shown by the owner of this store must be commended. Complimentary treats and shelter were provided graciously. We called our hostess Bernie Davis, who went through the pouring rain to the beach to notify our husbands that we were safe. Once the storm passed we returned safely home.

Once again thank you all for your kind hospitality.

Some insights into trademark regulations

Editor:

The article and cartoon on the trademark "Sizzler" in the August 23 The Times unfairly bashes the U.S. owners of the trademark. The fact that they are a U.S. firm is completely immaterial, and the scenario would be the same if they were British, Japanese, Mexican or even Canadian. As a long-term cottager and a retired trademark agent I have complete sympathy for the Hiscocks and for the expensive and frustrating position in which they find themselves, but in 43 years of practice I have seen it happen often, from both sides of the fence.

Trademarks are a global, multi-billion dollar business; if you doubt that try to calculate the value of a single well-known trademark such as "Kodak" or "Coke", then realize that little Canada alone registers about 300 trademarks every week while the U.S. registers over 1,000. If we want other countries to honour Canadian trademarks when we use them abroad then we have to give their marks equal rights when they use them in Canada.

A trademark is only valuable if it is distinctive. "Sizzler" restaurants are a big operation in the U.S., and apparently they had a toehold in Canada via their B.C. operation. By now they will have invested many millions in advertising and promoting their mark, so it is a very valuable property. Sizzlers International have no choice, but to attack as strongly and quickly as possible anyone who tries to use their mark, or one confusingly similar to it. If they do not then someone else opening a restaurant anywhere else in Canada could point to Minden, Ontario as a precedent for unauthorized use. With its distinctiveness gone its value in Canada is destroyed. This is the way a number of very valuable marks have been lost to their owners.

The situation could be different if the Hiscocks can show that they used the trademark (perhaps in Bobcaygeon) before it was effectively used by Sizzlers International in Canada. For example, even the mighty Holiday Inns International could not touch the tiny 10-unit Holiday Inn Motel in Stoney Creek, Ontario since the motel was there first; I believe that eventually they bought it out.

Under the BNA Act patents and the registration of trademarks are under the jurisdiction of the federal government. In order to register (not patent) a trademark you must use it; it is a quirk of our federal system that use in a single province allows the owner to preempt it in all provinces. The use of a trademark without registration does give a right under common law, as with the Holiday Inn Motel, but such a right is limited strictly to the area in which it has been used. Just to complicate matters common law use can be adjudicated either provincially or federally.

Unfortunately, the provincial corporate registration which the Hiscocks obtained does not protect the mark, and is not intended to do so although it could constitute proof of when it was first adopted. There is no question of one system over-riding the other, they are both good systems and they work in tandem.

I hope your readers will join me in wishing the Hiscocks well and help them by using the restaurant even more when it rises Phoenix-like under its new name, whatever that may be.

Eternity of columnists muse on words

Write me off as a singular bore if you want, but I am sublimely uninterested in "gender-neutral" language.

It's all the rage, you know. Shepherds and shepherdesses are verboten. The term is herdperson. You're not even supposed to say chairwoman or chairman any more. The officially laundered and approved phrase is chairperson - or simply the chair.

Well, sorry Ms. Grundy, but 'the chair' is what I park 'the bum' in. And as for gender fuzzification, I think it's just another ploy for lawyers and politicians and other paper spewing windbags who pay their mortgages by muddying up the water the rest of us have to swim through.

The English language is a marvellous creation - a bottomless quiver full of razor-sharped adjectival arrows honed and edged for every imaginable target. We have so many glorious words - masculine and feminine. Why would anyone want to neutralize them?

The scary thing about these self-appointed language gelders is that they just might win. If we don't use words we lose them. If you don't believe me go ask kids what a throttle, a treadle or Wellingtons are. Sure, you know - but I bet they don't.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

There was a time when we cared a great deal more about words. Back in the 15th century a language maven by the name of Dame Juliana Berners published a tome called The Book of St. Albans. It was a small book - a manual really - consisting of 164 specific terms for groups of things.

We can thank Dame Juliana for the terms a pride of lions and a litter of puppies; for a swarm of bees and a flock of sheep.

It was this book which first differentiated between geese on the ground (gaggle) and geese in the air (skein).

For the past 500 years, thanks to The Book of St. Albans, English speakers have referred to slates of candidates and herds of elephants.

We even kept the mistakes Dame Juliana made. She insisted that the correct term for a group of fish was school. Actually, it was a misspelling of shoal, but as nobody spelled very well in the 15th century Dame Juliana's word was as good as anybody's and better than most.

Some of her descriptions are pure poetry. How better to describe a mass of locusts than a plague?

And birds - how about:

A bouquet of pheasants?

A murder of crows?

A parliament of owls?

A brood of hens?

An exaltation of larks?

Dame Juliana didn't deal exclusively in animal codification. She also gave us:

A sentence of judges.

An impatience of wives.

A boast of soldiers.

An impertinence of peddlers.

A drift of fishermen.

An eloquence of lawyers.

Too bad Dame Juliana is not around today.

We've got some brand new groups that just cry out for codification. How about:

A sleaze of politicians?

A rant of evangelists?

An ooze of salesmen?

An eternity of columnists - especially ones with (a swarm of) bees in their bonnets about words?

Editorial upsets Soyers Lake group

Editor:

As members of the Soyers Lake Ratepayers' Association Inc. (SLRA), we were surprised and disappointed that the editor of a newspaper would write an editorial on an issue without first acquainting himself with the facts.

We refer to the August 16 editorial "Black Liquor, Seeds of Fear". It appears that the source material for this editorial was the report in The Times entitled "Dust versus Liquor". This article unfortunately contained much misinformation.

Your editorial (Aug. 16) referred to "someone who said Black Liquor might contain dioxin". That "someone" is the Ontario Ministry of Environment and Energy. The presence of dioxin in Black Liquor (Domtar Dombond) was documented in a letter from the ministry dated Nov. 23, 1990 to the municipality and should have been on file at the township office prior to our presentation at the July 8 council meeting.

The editorial further says Black Liquor "might" be harmful to fish. A report from an aquatic toxicologist in the ministry's Water Resources Branch, dated August 1992, stated that in rainbow trout, all of the specimens died after 20 minutes' exposure to black liquor diluted 100 fold. It is our understanding that black liquor is being applied full strength to the roads in the township.

The editorial says black liquor "might" be harmful to wildlife. Dioxin has been shown to have harmful effects on wildlife, especially birds, in many studies. In addition to dioxin, analysis of the material has shown that it contains substantial concentrations of the toxic metals: cadmium and lead. The high concentrations of sodium and potassium salts in the material is an attractant to birds and animals which drink from the puddles by the roadside. These puddles are caused by either excess application or from the leachate of black liquor which follows rainfall on the road for many months after application.

Jobs needed in this area now before it's too late

Editor:

I read the lead story in the August 26th Toronto Star. There was picture of a well-fed Tory cabinet ministry stating that there was no money for job creation in the next Tory government. The government would continue to follow the same economic programs in the next term. I threw the paper down in disgust.

Where has this minister of the crown been for the last three years? Certainly not in Victoria-Haliburton. One doesn't have to be a cabinet minister to see the empty factories and stores in our towns and villages. Unemployment figures run well over 30 per cent in Haliburton County and there are over 2,000 people without work in Victoria. These are real people with families and not just a statistic. They are our friends, our neighbours and even our family and we know the suffering they feel by being unemployed.

With fewer jobs, there is less money to spend on goods and services. Just ask our shop keepers and small business people the impact that unemployment has had on their business.

We can no longer allow an insensitive Tory government to impose economic policies that are tearing the soul out of our communities. Mulroney and his crowd have done enough damage.

We need policies that support growth in the small business sector. We need changes in our banking system to encourage investment in small business. We need effective support of industries as they compete on the international markets.

We can not sit back and let our friends and family suffer. It's time for a real change.

Responsibility for pets lies with owner

Editor:

We moved into the beautiful Haliburton Highlands three years ago. We were so impressed with the beauty, quiet kindness and the neighbors who were there when we needed them and vice-versa. Now, in the last 17 months we feel our little part of Eagle Lake must be the hell hole of the world.

People we used to respect have turned vicious, rude, ignorant and into liars. Ignorant of the fact that other people have rights as humans they seem to think they are the only people who live in the neighborhood and can raise hell either by letting their dogs bark day and night, or letting them run loose, urinating and messing all over other people's yards.

These people have let their dogs bark for over a year now. When one couple were approached about it, they started beating their poor animals. We have a dog and he stays on his own property. He has never gone unleashed past the end of the laneway. He does not bark up to eight hours straight, he does not bark between midnight and 4 a.m.

These people have ignored our requests to quieten the dogs, not beat them, but quieten them. We've been sworn at, lied to, ignored and as much told to drop dead. Their dogs "Don't bark" or the owners says "My #@ dogs can bark all they want and if you don't like it, buy #@ ear plugs." God did not give us ears to plug because of somebody else's total ignorance.

After more than a year of these dogs barking these people can't understand why we yell at their dogs to shut up. It seems the only peace and quiet we get from these poor dogs is to play loud music which I detest. I really prefer the everyday sounds of life. We've been advised to keep playing the music. Then the bylaw officer advised to not play the music. Make phone calls, don't make phone calls. What and who do we believe?

We made our first approach to the township (trying to do things legally) on March 26 and it has been an ongoing battle ever since. One neighbor told my husband to "be a man about the situation, visit the dog and beat it or poison it." Some manly attitude that guy has.

Our property been vandalized six times. We've had the OPP visit one family. Our real estate agent's sign was ripped off and last Sunday our name sign bent and twisted. Our many phone calls to various officials all seem to end up with, "I'm so sorry, but the county will have to deal with it." I've been to two Dysart council meetings and the councillors sympathize and feel there must be a change in the existing bylaw. "We will discuss it at our next meeting" they say and that's another four weeks.

Since the last council meeting, one couple's dogs have been three times as bad. Last Wednesday we listened to this dog bark from 11:35 p.m. to 1:10 a.m. again. We are sick and tired of people calling us troublemakers. We have rights as all Canadian citizens who vote, pay taxes, keep their home neat and clean and look after the responsibilities that are theirs. Nowhere is it written that we have to be subjected to this kind of abuse.

Many of the owners of these dogs are so-called hunters. You know, the ones who ignore their dogs until hunting season. If these howling dogs get two weeks attention I guess that's fair. But do these dogs have the $10 license tags, are they vaccinated against rabies and heartworm. My guess is not.

So until council sees fit to take a step on this issue, we are forced to be helpless in this horrible, unbelievable lifestyle. With shattered nerves and major weight loss, I really must say Thank God we only have a few to contend with because the rest of Eagle Lake folks are wonderful. Their encouragement, smiles, conversation and being there for us and so many others has sure helped us.

And to the yapping dog owners, remember, people and dogs are very much alike. Aggravate them long enough and they bark or bite.

Congratulation to the organizers of the World Cup White Water Championship for another successful event.

As a resident of Horseshoe Lake Road, I am very proud to live so close to such a wonderful event.

Thank you for the special attention

In Brief

World cup results

Canadians fared well at the World Cup for slalom canoeists and kayakers held on August 22 in Minden. In the men's kayak David Ford of Edmonton finished fifth and earned valuable points which should boost him higher than his current 14th place world ranking. Great Britain's Melvyn Jones was the winner of the men's kayak race. In the women's event Sheryl Boyle of Ottawa took 11th spot finishing well behind Lynn Simpson (pictured above) of Great Britain who grabbed top spot. However, all finalists pick up world cup points.

There were two Canadians in the one-person canoe finals, Dan and his cousin Larry Norman. Dan, from Ottawa, finished 12th while Larry, from Cultus Lake, B.C.) took 13th. The race was won Lukas Pollert of the Czech Republic. In the two-person canoe final Benoit Gauthier and Francois Letourneau of Quebec finished seventh while Miroslav Simek and Jiri Rohan of the Czech Republic finished first.

townships registration at the Bancroft Chamber of Commerce at 1:30 p.m. (for more information call Sonya Emond at 613-332-2202). Minden will not have a run as a race organizer could not be found.

The run has raised over $100 million since it began in 1981. Last year Ontario residents raised $3.4 million - the highest total to date.

Haliburton winless streak finally over

Haliburton Westside Jug City bounced back from a string of defeats to topple Orillia 3-2.

The win was Haliburton's first since June 17 and their sixth of the season. More importantly the two points gave Haliburton sole possession of eighth place, one point behind Orillia.

Scoring for Haliburton were Cecil Smith, Jan Haedicke and Darren Parsons. Haedicke and Parsons now have six goals for the year and are tied for the second highest on the team. Smith's goal was his third of the year.

Haliburton is still a long way from the top and can not catch most of the teams above them in the standings. They do have a shot at Orillia and the Midland North Stars for sixth spot, but both those teams have games in hand.

Collingwood Lakers continues to lead the way grabbing three of a possible four points during the week to increase their lead over Huntsville and Bracebridge to four points.

THE PURPLE INVADER

Volunteers can slam the door on Purple Loosestrife invasion

by Russ Duhaime

When people look at a wetland, most see a worthless, insect-infested swamp. It's not dry enough to build on and not wet enough to be valued as a lake.

For centuries, wetlands have been viewed as nothing more than a nuisance, and perhaps this is why efforts to stop the rapid spread of Purple Loosestrife have been met with limited enthusiasm.

About 15 people from Muskoka and Haliburton County turned out to a presentation at the Ministry of Natural Resources Frost Centre last week to hear about this invasive plant. And while the gathering sounds small, Jennifer Hickey and Alexi Zawadzki said it was one of the larger groups they had addressed in their summer-long tour of the north.

Zawadzki and Hickey are Nipissing University students who were employed by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters to travel around northern Ontario alerting people to the problems caused by Purple Loosestrife and advising them on what they can do to help.

Contrary to popular belief, wetlands are vitally important to humans and wildlife. Zawadzki made the comparison with the value of tropical rain forests, noting that wetlands are the most productive ecosystems in Ontario. They provide food and shelter to a tremendous variety of plants, fish, birds, insects and mammals. They act as natural filters, improving the quality of the water flowing through our rivers and into our lakes. They help reduce flooding, act as natural reservoirs, and increase stream flow in dry summer months.

Millions of dollars have been spent by conservation groups (OFAH, Ducks Unlimited, Federation of Ontario Naturalists and the Ministry of Natural Resources) in an attempt to educate the public about the value of wetlands. Yet, while the public slowly comes on side, North America's wetlands are being swallowed up by Purple Loosestrife at a rate of 190,000 hectares per year.

Purple Loosestrife is a wetland plant which hitched a ride into North America in the 1800s and has gradually spread throughout the continent. It invades marshes and lakeshores, replacing the natural vegetation. Because it has no natural controls here, this highly-competitive plant is able to thrive, said Hickey. And once, it establishes itself in an area, it's very difficult to eradicate.

Here in Haliburton County, the threat seems small. While areas surrounding the Highlands are overwhelmed by the plant, it has yet to establish itself in significant numbers. There are a few sparse patches, but so far its presence is minimal.

Because the Purple Loosestrife spreads so easily, Zawadzki and Hickey say it won't be long before seeds from these small patches spread throughout the county.

Their prediction, however, will not come true if people are willing to put up a battle. Eradication in the early stages of an invasion is relatively simple, they say. It just means keeping an eye out for the plants and uprooting them wherever they grow.

Once it establishes itself in an area, however, the task becomes much more difficult. Uprooting an entire field of these plants is an enormous task, and does nothing to eliminate the seeds left behind. (Each plant can produce 2.7 million seeds per year.) Likewise, burning is ineffective, and herbicide use is prohibited in wetlands.

Hickey said biological controls have been introduced in some areas with good success. Two varieties of beetles and one weevil have been approved for use in Canada. These insects feed solely on Purple Loosestrife, providing natural vegetation with a competitive edge.

This option, however, is a long-term solution, said Hickey. It takes about 10 years before these insects will establish populations large enough to be effective. Therefore, it is important that people do what they can to reduce the spread of this plant.

Manually yanking the plants out of the soil is the preferred method of dealing with Purple Loosestrife. However, their extensive root systems often make this impossible. Therefore, the use of a shovel is usually required, they said.

The best way to dispose of the plants is to place them into garbage bags and take them to an upland site for drying and burning. A simpler method is to leave them in the bags and take them to the dump.

Before people can implement a control program of their own, they need to be able to correctly identify the plant. Zawadzki and Hickey say there are several natural plants that closely resemble Purple Loosestrife, so it's important to know the tell-tale characteristics of this plant. It grows up to 2.5 metres in height with several square, woody stalks per plant. It flowers from July to September in colours ranging from pink to bright magenta.

Boxing with brains and not brawn

Minden training course teaches technique, style over bashing

by Andy Holloway

Have you ever heard this one, "I went to a hockey game the other night and a boxing match broke out."

Well, Parker Pepper has and it bugs him.

Pepper has a devoted affection to the sport of boxing and recently brought his pugilistic training talents to the Minden area. For six weeks between April and June Pepper and around 10 students met every Saturday morning at the Spot 97 gym for training, conditioning and some sparring.

Boxing is one sport that has suffered recently. Top ranked fighters taking on stiffes for easy cash, the Mike Tyson rape trial and conviction and the silliness of promoters like Don King have given boxing a bad name and one that Parker says is not deserved.

"With boxing it's only you and another guy in the ring and if you have the technique you are going to win. It's not just bashing each other in the head and that's the image that gives it a bad name."

The skills and techniques of boxing is what Parker teaches to his students. He says he doesn't want people who are just looking for a better way to get in barroom brawls and school yard scuffles. "Anyone can fight, but it takes a dedicated person to learn how to box," Parker says.

The benefits of boxing are many say Parker and his students. Jason "Black Death" Corby is a 16-year-old who attended Parker's first series of lessons. Corby says boxing "helps with coordination and builds up muscles" that can be used in other sports he plays such as baseball and soccer. The hand-to-eye coordination boxing develops is especially useful for baseball.

Corby adds that the one-on-one competition is also a factor in his decision to participate. However, he does admit with a grin that a good, solid punch - even into a heavy bag - is very satisfying.

Besides having some informal training sessions with his uncle five years ago, Corby says he has never had any other opportunity to give a jab in the ring. The boxing school began with word-of-mouth advertising with Corby hearing about it from a friend. Oliver "Goat" Greer also found out about it from a friend and took the plunge.

"I've always liked boxing, even as a little kid and so when there was an opportunity here I went for it," says Greer who had never put on the gloves in earnest, but according to Parker the 19-year-old was one of his best students ever.

The Minden school is not the first time Parker has given boxing lessons. Over the past seven years Parker has taught in various locations including when he went to college. In total, he has been in boxing for "15 really hard years."

Living in Rosseau the choice of Minden for a boxing school seems pretty far off the beaten path, but Parker says this is one of the few towns with almost the right kind of facility and enough interest in the sport. As a UPS driver for the area Parker asked Spot 97 owner Brian Shaw about whether he thought there would be enough interest to set up a school. Shaw said he didn't know, but they soon found out there was quite a bit.

Boxing takes dedication

Jason Corby, 16, nicknamed 'Black Death', enjoys boxing because it develops coordination and muscles, as well as the satisfying feeling you get when you hit something really hard.

Originally 12 people signed up (all males) and eight stuck through the six weeks.

"Some had tried it, some hadn't, but all had an interest in it. I guess because Mike Tyson was on everybody's mind at the time."

Indeed, ask Jason Corby who his favourite boxers are and he cites Mike Tyson (currently in jail) and Sugar Ray Leonard (now retired, again). Both are also Americans and Parker says this is a typical Canadian attitude to their own stars.

Canada, he points out, had the first black boxing champion back about 100 years ago and has always had a strong boxing tradition. From George Chuvalo to Montreal's Hilton brothers, Canada has always had strong fighters. Today, that trend continues with Scotty "Bulldog" Olsen, Razor Ruddick and Lennox Lewis but boxing's popularity is still going downhill.

Not only is boxing losing ground to other traditional sports like baseball and hockey, but Parker also admits it is losing to other hand-to-hand combat sports like karate. While the popularity of karate is rising Parker says it sometimes is for the wrong reason.

"Every time a Chuck Norris movie or a Claude Van Damme movie comes out enrolment in karate schools goes up and when Parker Pepper, 28, from Rosseau has been teaching boxing for the last seven years and now runs a training program in Minden.

Roadhouse came out more people entered boxing, but that's the wrong attitude. People have a habit of jumping on the bandwagon when it's the in thing to do."

One current bandwagon that may help boxing is the aerobic sport 'boxercise' that Sugar Ray promotes on television and which many women are finding is a fun, new way to enjoy aerobics. Parker says he has sold one set of equipment to a local woman who became interested in boxercise, but that he would like to see more women join the training sessions, whether for self-defence or for the fun of it. Parker points out that many of his students never enter the ring they just come to enjoy the training and conditioning.

The next session of boxing begins September 11 at 9:30 a.m. Sign-up can be done at Spot 97.

Times/3M sponsors coach awards

Every year hundreds of children in Haliburton County get a chance to participate in activities thanks to the hard work of many volunteers from league organizers to coaches.

These individuals never ask for anything other than a good effort from their players and are rarely singled out for praise by anyone outside of the teams they work for.

The Times is proud to be a partner with the Coaching Association of Canada and 3M in the Community Coach Recognition Program which will honour four coaches who are actively involved in sports in Haliburton County and northern Victoria County.

If you know of a coach who is deserving of this honour simply complete a nomination form and mail it or fax it to The Times. Starting Monday (August 30) nomination forms will be available at The Times office during business hours.

A local selection committee will be formed to judge all of the entries and four coaches will be chosen from them. Winners will receive a gold-tone lapel pin and a certificate as well as a well-deserved pat on the back.

The program is open to all coaches in any sport at any level (minor hockey, recreational baseball, schools etc.) who have coached for at least two years. To reflect the fact that we are between sporting seasons right now the nominations will not close until October 22.

It's time these individuals were recognized for their hard work and community spirit.

PCs swing through riding

The federal Progressive Conservatives continued their campaign-style swing through Canada last week with two stops in the county.

Minister for International Trade Tom Hockin and Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Pauline Browes were the ministers on tour in the area. Hockin hit Lindsay in the morning before arriving in Haliburton along with PC candidate Lorne Chester to meet warden Chris Hodgson.

Later in the day Browes made it a conservative threesome at a Minden Rotary dinner. Both Browes (Scarborough Centre) and Hockin (London West) were handed their respective ministries in June after serving the party since 1984.

All across Canada PC ministers have been on a tour to recover some of their badly tarnished image left over from the days of former Prime Minister Brian Mulroney. With Mulroney in power the PCs recorded the worst popularity level in the history of Canadian federal politics for a ruling party. New PM Kim Campbell has raised that level of support since touring through Canada using taxpayers' money.

Meanwhile, the local New Democrats nominated Cathy Vainio who also in the last federal election.

Trustees give final OK to four tenders

by Andy Holloway

The following brief items were discussed at the Haliburton County Board of Education meeting last Tuesday.

Tending the store

Trustees approved four more contracts for work to be done at the county's schools. At the high school work on the new parking lot should begin soon as Hawk River Construction was awarded an $11,450 contract. The Haliburton firm will be installing a new gravel lot on the high school's old playing field which become obsolete when a new field hockey field was created last spring. The largest tender, $67,900, was for the new boiler at the high school and was awarded to Adamson and Dobbins. The old boiler went on the skids last spring and needed to be replaced or repaired. The new boiler is expected to be installed this week.

Other contracts approved by the board include an oil tender to Sid Stamp Fuels which fell below last year's price, and garbage disposal contract to Highland→ isposal Service.

God and taxes

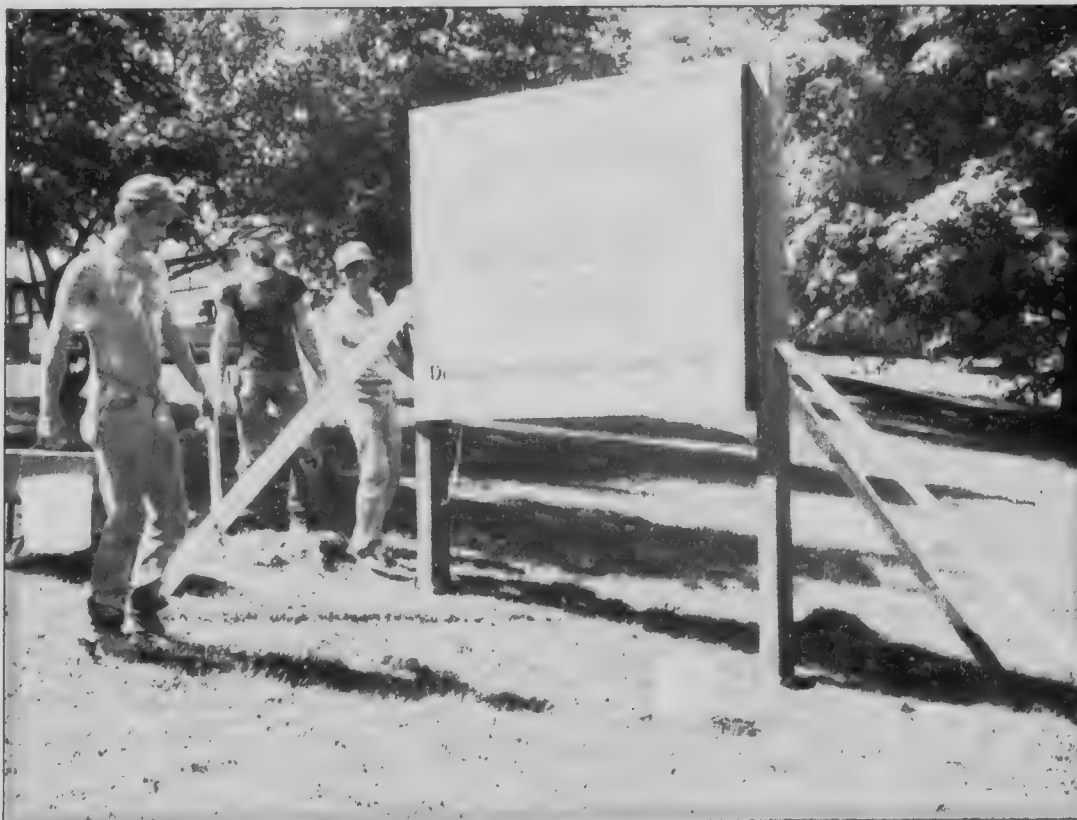

Of all the reasons not to pay education taxes a West Hill couple tried to strike their share on a most unusual note - God. No, God did not tell them to stop paying their taxes, but Roy and Muriel Hirons sent a letter to the Haliburton board stating they would refuse to pay taxes in the future unless the board allowed Bible or Christian prayers to be honoured. The letter states that by withholding the "Word of God you are contributing to the destruction of Canada."

In a tactful reply to the couple, Education Director Brad Saunders stated that the province allows respect for Christian beliefs, but it must also honour other religious beliefs as well to reflect Ontario's increasingly multicultural society. In other words, the board must honour the laws of the land.

The province has set aside $2 million for the cost of a new photocopying license with copyright licensing group CANCOPY. Earlier this year the province an-

The Laxton, Digby, Longford logo contest winner was John Mykytuk of Head Lake. Councillor Lynn Peel presents Mykytuk with a prize, the book The Land Between, at a ceremony held earlier in August at the townships' new office.

Kinmount Fair set for weekend

Permanent facilities are being built on the Kinmount fair grounds to house year-round events and to host the pioneer festival during the fair which is held on Labour Day weekend every year.

The fair is one of the oldest in Ontario and this year is the 122nd year for the event. The fair will feature an amateur talent show, beef cattle and horse shows, concerts, dances and of course a midway.

The official opening of the two permanent buildings of the Kinmount Heritage Complex will be held this Friday at 6:45 p.m. in front of the fair grounds.

The buildings will mirror old Ontario homes which were built in the area during the 19th century adding an extra pioneer element.

nounced it would no longer pay for the license due to provincial cutbacks. This left it up to individual boards whether they wanted to make a deal with CANCOPY. A licence is needed to photocopy copy-righted material. Without it anyone photocopying such material could be charged.

The province has now agreed to participate in a new deal along with the education sector and teachers will soon be able to photocopy material legally again.

Cheese please

Fund raising request by area schools are getting stranger and stranger. Trustees approved fund-raising requests from the high school and Gooderham and Dorset elementary schools. The high school bands will be raising money through the sale of citrus fruit and cheese instead of the normal sale of chocolate. Apparently the band wants the cheese to chocolate switch because too many groups already sell chocolate. Gooderham plans to sell tubs of gourmet cookie dough as well as more usual activities such as a fun fair and selling school crests. Dorset also received approval for its Friday hot lunch program which operated successfully last year.

Red Umbrella brings a smile to new faces

It was the friendly, family look of the resort which first caught their attention when Rick Tustin and Kim Creamer pulled into the driveway of the Red Umbrella Inn north of Minden. The couple were searching for a resort to call their own, a place to take them away from the bustle of the city and a business which would allow them to remain in the service industry.

"It was just the right size, manageable, and catered to families," Kim recalls. "I liked the decorative touches the Stevens had put into the place. It was 'homey' and something just clicked."

That was earlier this year. Just over a month ago, with the tourist season in full flight, the couple, along with their friend and assistant Bruce Walker, moved in to take over the Red Umbrella Inn from Bob and Lynn Stevens.

Rick had been in the food business for the past 22 years, managing a fleet of catering trucks in the Toronto area. He sold the business in late 1991 and began looking around for a small resort as an investment. They looked at a number of properties in various locations in cottage country, but it wasn't until they arrived at the Red Umbrella Inn that they knew they had found what they were looking for. Rick had visited the area a number of times in the past, using the Matabanick Inn further north on Highway 35 as a winter retreat for himself and his drivers. With the help of real estate representative Bill Kulas, they have integrated into the community quickly. "Bill has been helpful in so many ways," Rick commented, "even after the sale was completed."

The owners also had praise for Bob and Lynn Stevens and staffer Betty Dionne. They helped ease the transition, especially at this busy time of the year. Betty, who has worked the front desk at the Red Umbrella for a number of years, continued in that post for the new owners, while Lynn headed the kitchen staff through the busy summer season. The extra assistance was of particular value since the new owners undertook some renovations immediately upon taking over. The renovations included a new entrance way to the main lodge, redecorating and renovating the dining room, adding a new deck out the front of the building and adding a hot tub enclosure.

"The most important thing we can do is to treat our guests right," Bruce said, commenting on the philosophy the three bring to running the resort. "Treat your guests right. If you do, they'll be back again and again." That attitude of course is a two way street. The new owners report that the guests are enjoying their times at the resort and they are enjoying meeting the visitors. "It made it so easy," Kim added, "They enjoy the resort and we enjoy them."

"We've also run into some very pleasant people in the community," Rick said. He relates an incident which occurred several weeks after arriving here that will forever endear the community to him. Rick and Bruce were in Minden picking up supplies for the resort and the renovations. They had finished loading the last of the material and drove off without realizing Rick had inadvertently left his wallet on the roof of the vehicle. Since they were in the midst of major purchases, the wallet contained some $3500 in cash as well as credit cards and personal papers. When they realize the wallet was missing, they retraced their steps hoping in vain to locate it. However, by the time they got back to the resort, the wallet, with all its contents, had made its way back to the resort thanks to the nearby resident who lives on Sharon Lake. She had found the wallet shortly after it had been dropped. The billfold did not contain any local identification so she called the catering company Rick owned (he was still carrying one of his old business cards) and they directed her to the Red Umbrella Inn.

Rick noted that the story of the missing money and its prompt return simply confirmed for all three they had made the right move in relocating to the Highlands.

Happy to be in the Highlands, Bruce Walker, Kim Creamer and Rick Tustin, along with "Charlie", the new owner/operators at the Red Umbrella Inn.

Her own field of flowers inspires nature artist

by Andy Holloway

Uplifting and restful is how Dorothy Rawsthorne explains why flowers are her favourite things to paint. Indeed, the walls in the living room in the large, spacious cottage she and husband Ralph share on Loon Lake, are filled with flowers - the painted kind - and the result is fairly uplifting even on a nice, warm August day.

Rawsthorne takes the whole artistic process one step further and brings the flowers close to her. In fact she need not leave home during the warm months in the Highlands as there is a beautiful garden in the back which she uses for her inspiration.

And if it rains? Well, Rawsthorne has that covered too. She keeps flowers in the fridge for use on those cloudy, colder days when sitting in the backyard studying flowers would be difficult, if not impossible. "The flower stores love me," she says.

The end result can be seen this week and next at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden where Rawsthorne's work will be paired up with Dunsford artist Joyce Weir landscapes and wildlife.

An original devotee of oil paintings, Rawsthorne turned to watercolours about 12 years ago, but she says it has been a happy union with her love of painting flowers. For the past 20 years she has been spending her summers in Haliburton and her winters in St. Catharines where she was born. The past few years she has been increasing her time spent in the Highlands and last year eight months were spent here.

While her paintings are mostly of flowers the landscapes of Haliburton and northern Ontario also appeal to her. She confesses that she has painted the usual Highlands spots, but is happiest when she can sit in her garden and gaze fondly into a bed of flowers in an attempt to capture the essence and spirit of them. Far from being limiting she says each variety of flower has its own spirit which can then be translated into art.

Averaging about six shows per year her paintings hang throughout Canada, U.S.A., West Indies, British Isles and France. Beginning her studies in her teens with Prince Nesbitt, a well-known Ontario portrait painter, Rawsthorne has continually sought out the best teachers in oil and later watercolour.

When she's not busy trying to translate a flower's inner beauty Rawsthorne has been teaching Speech Arts and Communication at Niagara College part-time for the past 16 years. She has also studied speech pathology at a New York State university and the arts at the University of Toronto.

The latest show at the gallery entitled "A Look At Nature" runs until September 11. The gallery is open Monday to Saturday between 10 a.m., and 4 p.m.

In the Rawsthorne's living room Dorothy's flowers paintings line the walls creating an atmosphere of restfulness which many are finding inspirational.

Black liquor called harmful by SLRA

reported seeing deer drinking from these puddles of black liquor or its leachate.

The editorial also said that it "might" even be harmful to humans. At the moment, we can only speculate on the potential for harm to humans, as no human exposure studies have been done. However, in the past virtually all information available for establishing the toxicity of chemicals to humans has come from animal studies. Given the toxic contaminants it contains and their known lethal effects on fish, it would be wise to err on the side of caution.

Domtar is currently requesting permission from the ministry to deal with black liquor as a product rather than a waste. The ministry is examining this request very carefully. In the meantime Domtar is making black liquor attractive to municipalities by offering it free to those who will use it. In spite of assurances from Domtar that black liquor supplied to municipalities does not contain dioxin, the ministry laboratory tests demonstrated its presence.

We refer now to the article entitled "Dust versus Liquor" that appeared in The Times on August 16. Apparently one resident of Soyers Lake Road wrote to council complaining of excess dust due to traffic on the road. Two other people telephoned the reeve with similar complaints. When one purchases a property on an unpaved road, one must expect a certain amount of dust at various times of the year. To expect otherwise is unreasonable.

It should be noted that 50 families live on Soyers Lake Road from the township boundary east of Soyers Lake to and including Grace Road. This is the portion of Soyers Lake Road which drains directly into Soyers Lake and is part of the area of concern to SLRA. Of the families that live on this portion of Soyers Lake Road, 32 have signed a petition asking that black liquor not be used on their road. It is expected that several more families will add their names to this petition within the next few weeks.

The article further stated that Reeve Bern Berry said Soyers Lake Road is deteriorating at a rapid pace. As of August 20, the road was in good condition, having been graded twice since the beginning of July. In our opinion the road is not deteriorating, and is in fact in better condition now than at the time of the July 8 council meeting. In contrast, on a road connecting with Soyers Lake Road (Duck Lake Road) where black liquor continues to be used, severe erosion and gullying has occurred.

According to the article in your newspaper, it seems the reeve is annoyed because the SLRA has not responded to him with further information. It is our clear understanding that council set the time of further review of this matter as October 1993 (as reported in the July 13 Haliburton Echo) and it is our firm intention to present the results of our current investigations at that time.

In closing, we would like to say that to imply that the problems associated with the use of Dombond are imagined flies in the face of facts as documented.

Decoration Day: The beginning of Legion Week In Canada, starts with a decoration of war veteran's graves at the Minden Cemetery. Parade leaves the fairgrounds at 2:15 p.m.

A red ribbon day

Behind the scenes late Friday night judges were busy selecting the best the 129th Annual Haliburton County Fair had to offer. The judging was not easy as the quality of this year's competition was high indeed, but they did manage to complete the task and awarded ribbons of red, white and blue to hundreds of entrants. The results from the various events begin on page 27.

The weekend's equestrian events drew competitors from all over the county and surrounding area and the performances were top-notch.

The Little Country Fair

The Fair kicked off with a funny parade,
Showing the floats that everyone made.
There were clowns and bands and bagpipes too
Drums and flags to mention a few.
Prizes were given for the best dressed float
Sometimes the parade was pushed by an old billy goat.

I always went to the Minden Fair
You never knew just who you'd see there.
Mothers, fathers, neighbours and friends
Everyone and their dog came out of their dens
To see the cattle, horses and pigs
And hear folks play the good old jigs.

A local church put on a meal
For which you got a very good deal.
We went for the rides, slides and merry-go-round
And sure were glad when our feet hit the ground.
Twenty-five cents was the cost to get in and twenty-five cents was the cost of the fling!

You could buy ice cream for a nickel a cone,
If you were a Methodist you took twenty-five cents home!
If you cared to spend the rest of your money,
You could buy all kinds of candy just for a penny.
If you were hot and dry, you could sit in the shade,
And have a glass of cool lemonade.

There was baking and vegetables with ribbons of red, white and blue
And grandma's home-made quilts on display too.
There were preserves and handwriting from the children at school.
The judges were kept to the Golden Rule.
When you went home at the end of the day
You were tired and weary and wished you could stay.

As the world changes, it's good to see
That the Fair continues for you and me.
Thanks to the people who have worked hard over the years
And given their time, money and tears.
As the day of the Fair is the day to be there
You can ensure the success of the old Minden Fair.

Kirkwood hosts trip to 'The Kirk'

We have a number of new residents at Hyland Crest and therefore we have an increase in visitors to see their friends and relatives.

Sunday afternoon, Estella Burch came to read for us. We have almost finished the book she has been reading. Thank you Estella.

Sunday evening chapel service was taken by Rev. John Burgess and Ruth Warthinton played the organ. We thank both Rev. Burgess and Ruth sincerely.

On Monday, Doris took several residents to the auditorium for "Poet's Corner." We composed a poem about a fair as we knew one, years ago. As our thoughts came together, Doris suggested it be read at this year's Minden Fair.

Tuesday morning chapel service was taken by Evelyn Coleman. She conducted a beautiful service and we truly thank her.

Dottie Muirhead had crafts in the afternoon and a couple of residents tried folk art. Thank you Dottie for the cheerful placemats at each of our places at the tables.

Thank you Andrew and Shandy for organizing Monday night's card games. It is a great help.

As usual, Corinne Arsenault came Tuesday night to help us play a few games of euchre. Thank you Corinne.

Wednesday the Museum Executive kindly invited any residents who wished to go, to have tea and see all the work that has been done at the museum and to see the replica of Bethel United Church which they have built on the museum grounds. Our host was Dick Kirkwood and hostesses were Carol Myles and her daughter, Wynn Newberry, Jeanne Sears and Irene Moore. We thank these people heartily. Of course, we went on the bus and those there to assist were John Thomas, Dorothy Milne, Dottie Muirhead, Ellen Holden, and Helen Donaldson. A sincere thank you to Linda Fry, Jennifer Ketner and Freida Hulbig who pushed three wheelchair residents all the way from the National Party to select candidate by September 10

The National Party of Canada will be holding a public meeting this Thursday as an introduction to this federal riding.

Greg Gofan, the party's Ontario Constituency Organizer, will be the guest speaker for the evening. The meeting starts at 7 p.m. at the Dysart Community Centre in Haliburton village.

Local party members are working hard at identifying a candidate for the next election. They expect to have completed the selection process by September 10.

The Shuffleboard Group of Minden provided the delicious tea and served us so adeptly. We had a short sing song to finish the afternoon. The ladies from the club were Nancy Coak, Marion Ingram, Jean Ballard, Joan Mackenzie, Kathleen Cannon and Etta McCann. Thank you all.

Thursday evening Amy Parker called Bingo for us. We had a good evening and thank Amy very much.

Haliburton County Fair

More than fun at the Fair

The slogan "There's Something For Everyone" proved true as three days of unbridled fun were served up by organizers of the Haliburton County Fair last weekend.

The 129th annual agricultural-based fair proved to be a delight for regular fair-goers and those new to the area or passing through.

Friday night the midway opened, but it wasn't until Saturday that things began jumping in earnest. Horse shows, sheep shows and bovine wonders strutted their stuff during various parts of the day. The county logging games were also a hit and complemented the Timbersports festival that was held earlier this year.

But the highlight had to be the parade which sailed down Minden's main street towards the fairgrounds early in the afternoon. Classic cars, clowns and politicians and the Legion band were all in attendance and many of the participants had candy to toss to the spectators.

Sunday had more for people including the tractor pulls and talent shows which competed for attention in the afternoon.

Many of the events were also competitions and results from these are as follows:

HERE ARE JUST A FEW OF THE MANY FEATURES OF THIS OUTSTANDING WOODSTOVE.

1. The Napoleon decorative canopy's dual surface feature helps distribute heated air throughout the room by deflecting it forward.
2. EPA approved to level 2 of the 1990 test standards with emissions as low as 3.2 grams per hour.
3. Built with confidence to last with fully welded seams and using the highest quality of materials; all covered under the Napoleon Fireplaces limited 5 year warranty.
4. Economical 6" flue on even the largest model, assures you of efficiency and cost saving installations.
5. Appealing pedestal base provides a well concealed inlet for combustion air which can be drawn from outdoors to add even more heating efficiency.
6. Single combustion control lever controls primary & secondary combustion air establishing a perfect mixture and assuring a clean burn.
7. Combustion air enters a precisely engineered distribution chamber, then dispersed to act as both primary & secondary air. The primary air keeps the glass door under a constant wiping action allowing for a clear view of the fire.
8. Extreme temperatures are safely controlled beneath the refractory baffle which superheats the gasses in preparation for ignition by the secondary air tube.

Centres close Saturdays

After considerable evaluation and discussion the CHACE board of directors has established that, effective September 1, Saturday openings at both CHACE Resource Centres will be discontinued.

This policy will be maintained until such a time as increased funding/staffing allows us to facilitate a Saturday program. We hope that there may be a time in the future when we will be in a position to do this, but it appears that there will be more reductions before things pick up for child care.

Thankfully, however, just when events started to look their bleakest our community has once again shown its support. The latest such gesture come from local artist Michael Hughes, who has generously donated an original sketch of a local landscape (matted and framed). A maximum of 500 tickets will be printed for this powerful sketch valued at $650. Tickets will be available for the next three months at a cost of $5 each. Our draw will take place just before Christmas making this a special opportunity to take a chance at winning an outstanding present while supporting a worthy cause. With the help of local businesses we will be displaying Michael's gift for all to see.

CHACE Update

by Sue Valm, Executive Director

Coming soon is the second annual CHACE Day at Dave's on 35 scheduled for October 2 - the same weekend as the Studio Tour. It's not too soon to sort through your closets and garages to donate to this gigantic yard sale. Saleable items can be dropped off at CHACE Day Care on Prentice Street in Minden or at any CHACE centre. Once again Dave is generously donating a portion of the proceeds from the sale of each burger sold that day. There will be another sensational raffle for this event with the top prize being a pair of gold tickets (again donated by Dave Honderich) for a Toronto Maple Leafs game.

Before signing off I'd like to extend a special thank you to Highland Stoneworks, Curry Motors, Minden Home Hardware and Building Supplies and Rodco Enterprises, all of whom have donated to cover the costs of our children's craft and programing supplies during the months of July and August. Thank you for your support.

For information on any of CHACE's services please call our head office at 457-2989.

Stretching your grocery dollar

A freezer can help you stretch your grocery dollar in many ways. In summer, for example, a freezer lets you preserve fruits and vegetables that are abundant and relatively inexpensive at this time of year.

To get the most benefit from your freezer, it's important to choose the unit that's right for your needs. Home freezers come in three sizes of storage space — 4.3 to 5.3 cubic feet, 7 to 8.3 cubic feet and 13 cubic feet and over. Since a half empty freezer costs almost as much to run as one that's full, bigger doesn't necessarily mean better.

Decide whether to purchase a chest-style freezer or an upright that resembles a refrigerator. Since less cold air escapes from chest freezers than from uprights when they are opened, a chest freezer is more economical to run. On the other hand, chest-style units are more difficult to clean because you have to reach to the bottom: this may rule them out as an option for seniors or others who find bending difficult.

Further tips on buying and using a freezer can be found in the latest issue of The Consumer, published by the Canadian

Legions pull together for Fair

August has been a comfortable month with limited activities at Branch 636. Our Ladies Auxiliary has been serving delicious lunches each day to members and many guests who are in the area. Branch 636 hosted a great spaghetti dinner and dance on August 8. We believe all were well fed, though we do not think any of us can speak any better Italian now than before the dinner.

Thanks to the efforts of Comrade Larry McKenzie and his better half, Molly, a real fun night was put together at the last minute on Saturday August 14. Gord Barley (Back Forty Music Man) of Moore Falls found himself with a free evening. He kindly offered it and his talents as a K.J. and a karaoke host to the 636. On short notice, Larry, Molly and President Lois Adamson put together a real fun evening. There was a good turnout of members and guests. A word of advice to both Molly and Kirk: we don't think either of you should be aspiring to audition at the Metropolitan Opera.

Comrades Syd and Lois Adamson, Gwen Cox, Sally Bonner and yours truly attended the District F Drumhead Service on August 15 hosted by Branch 280 in Deseronto along with Comrades from 53 other branches in the District. We travelled with comrades from Haliburton Branch 129 in a very comfortable highway cruiser bus. (Enough of these school buses). We participated in a parade and a service of tribute to our fallen comrades. Later, Branch 280 served a cold plate supper and we enjoyed fellowship with a number of Legionnaires from far and wide.

The County Fair in Minden was again a success last weekend. There was a good turnout for the parade and our colours included the U.N. blue and white flag for the first time. We wish to thank all those members from Branches 129 Haliburton, 441 Kinmount and our own 636 comrades for turning out to parade to the fair grounds. Also, to the many volunteers who operated the hospitality tent, many thanks.

Congratulations are in order to Sam A. Rogers of Minden, whose ticket was drawn at the fair on August 22. He won the Legions meat draw for $200 worth of meat from Coneybeare's Butcher Shop. How about an invite to dinner at the house, Sam? We like our steaks a little on the rare side.

Also, we wish to congratulate the branch seniors group for having won first prize with their beautiful hand-crafted quilt. We are very proud of you, not only for this achievement, but for the remarkable way you have progressed in the short time you have been organized. The seniors group meets every Tuesday afternoon. In addition to the activities and crafts, arts and card games, the group has participated in a number of interesting trips and more are planned. A senior does not necessarily have to be a branch member to join this group. Why not come out on Tuesday afternoons and meet new friends. We are certain you will enjoy yourself.

As usual, Branch 636 again will be parading with other comrade Legionnaires at the Warriors Day Parade at the Kinmount Fair. Our colours will be there and we hope as many of our members and L.A.s as possible. The parade is on September 4 and the Legions form up along the old CNR line opposite Pay-Rite Gas Bar and step off at noon. To avoid the pre-parade traffic, we suggest you leave early and get easy parking.

Please note that the week of September 19 is Royal Canadian Legion Week across Canada. On Sept. 19, the branch will be organizing Cemetery Decoration Day at the cemetery on Bobcaygeon Road. The graves of known Canadian or Allied veterans will be marked with a white cross affixed with a blood red poppy. Anyone else with a friend or relative there is welcome to decorate a grave and the public is welcome to participate along with our community clergy in a service of tribute. The Legion will parade to the cemetery from the Quonset building at the fair grounds at 2:15 p.m. with the service at 2:30 p.m.

Would all members of 636 please note that our general meetings again commence monthly on the first Wednesday beginning September 1 at 7:30 p.m. Members should try to be in attendance as it is at these meetings that the major decisions affecting your branch are made. Let us have your input.

We are pleased to report that the following members are again home from hospital and we hope progressing back to good health: Gladys Wruth, Hazel Austen, Cec Jones, Lee Oster and Jim Hindle. Comrades Horry Baker and Helen Johnson are in hospital and we sincerely wish them a speedy recovery. Our sincere sympathy is extended to Comrade Jean Jackson, wife of the late J.O. Jackson who passed away August 17. He will be remembered as he was not only a Canadian Veteran but an active member of this community.

Lastly, we are appealing to you, the members and affiliates of Branch 636 to come out and become involved. Remember it is your legion branch and it is what you make it.

NEW LISTINGS SOUGHT

Arguments for free trade agreements on shaky ground

On June 11 I happened to turn on CNN's Larry King Live with guest then-prime minister Brian Mulroney. An irate Canadian caller chastised Mulroney for pursuing NAFTA when Canada was still suffering from unemployment caused by the free trade agreement with the U.S.

While admitting that unemployment had gone up since the FTA, Mulroney replied that his peers - Bill Clinton, John Majors, Helmut Kohl and Kiichi Miyazawa - were being attacked in their own countries for the same thing.

In a global recession, Mulroney said he can't be blamed for what lies beyond his control. But something here just doesn't compute. If the world economy and the global marketplace are beyond control by any national government or leader, why are they rushing to forfeit any possibility of shaping their country's destiny by locking us into such a system?

Just who does the global economy benefit? Surely the primary winners of an FTA, NAFTA or Maastricht Treaty, are, by definition, the transnational corporations (TC). But those companies have little reason to care about long-term sustainability of natural resources or human communities.

Examples abound. When Tasmanians demanded high pollution standards of Macmillan-Bloedel's proposed Wesley Vale pulp mill, the company simply pulled out and relocated where standards are lower.

When British Columbia Premier Mike Harcourt recently declared the Tatshenshini River watershed off limits to development, mining officials immediately began to whine about the "chill" in Canada and sought better opportunities in Chile. TCs have the globe to play in and they will go wherever the laws minimize demands and maximize their returns.

Federal, provincial and municipal governments of all political stripes from right to left repeat the same mantras - we must become globally competitive, the world market is the key to our future prosperity and knowledge and high technology will be the wave of the future.

These are accepted political and economic truths. It's time to question these truths. Who says so? What's the evidence? What are the benefits? Why don't workers and jobs come first? Is it efficient to lose jobs and decimate communities so TCs can downsize or relocate to be more competitive?

We need a radical rethink about much of what now passes as conventional wisdom. Fluctuations in global currency (uncontrollable speculation is creating enormous instability) and huge job losses (Newfoundland fishers and IBM are only the latest examples) reveal the human misery created by competition in the global market. Developing countries have been enslaved by massive international debt and destruction of traditional socioeconomic infrastructure.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

The ecological costs of globalization are just as high. New Zealand lamb is cheaper to buy in Toronto than Ontario-grown meat while Vancouverites buy cheaper tomatoes from California than the Chilliwack Valley.

Here in the middle of a rich coastal rainforest on Quadra Island, all of the lumber at the local builder's supply comes from the U.S. It's a competitive business and American wood is cheaper, I am told.

So trees from B.C.'s old-growth forests are simply pulped for paper. Forest industry spokespeople call this the "reality of the global market" and blame environmentalists for the loss of jobs.

A neighborhood or community is the most important unit of survival in our society. That is the level at which individuals feel a sense of purpose, belonging and happiness. And for most of human history, that's how we lived, in small groups of hunter gatherers. Even after we became farmers and then city dwellers, people identified with the community. Yet now politicians ignore the best interests of local citizenry and rush to push us into a global economy.

We're doing it all wrong. We should first set the goal of maximum employment in communities across the country and then ask how to go about doing it. Instead, we put the global economy as the end and disrupt communities and ecosystems as the price for entry into it. And hundreds, even thousands of ears of social, cultural and ecological evolution are extinguished within decades.

For communities to flourish sustainably, those who live within it must be deeply committed to it. American poet Gary Snyder says once one says, "I'm staying," the focus shifts and time perspectives lengthen beyond the next pay cheque to years, decades and generations. Snyder's injunction leads to the corollary, "Buy local," to support our communities.

I suspect popular repudiation of Mulroney was as much a rejection of his relentless pursuit of American economic hegemony as it was of his persona. The electorate must now demand to know whether Kim Campbell and her supporting team have any different vision of where our economy and society are going.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Recently Minden Legion Seniors Group sponsored a bus trip to the International Tattoo at the Toronto SkyDome and all report having an enjoyable time.

What a great day it was at the Haliburton County Fair, with good crowds, a good parade, music, bands, and good food. And the weather was just right, cool in the morning but pleasant with a breeze in the afternoon. Fair Board members should be pleased with the results of all their efforts.

Winners from Kinmount Seniors at The Station on August 5th included Ted Wilkins with most lone hands, and Gavin McElwain, Maggie Kylie and Sandra Robertson. Then on August 12, most lone hands went to Mary Wilkins and Gladys Anderson, Ted Wilkins, Dick Holbrook and Mike Baillie. Join us every Thursday night at 8: Special thanks to all those who helped make our Sun Fair a success.

For the third year, The Court had a draw, with Sylvia Howard in charge. Winners on Sunday afternoon at the Fair were Jill Russell of Burlington, a double bed quilt; Tim Rodkin of Ajax, a single bed quilt; and John Turner of Scarborough, a B.J. Sweater. These winners have been notified, and the quilts and sweaters were made by people at Staunworth Court. We understand that there are no expenses, and all moneys go to training seeing-eye dogs. In the past three years, ticket sales have realized the cost of training one dog. The Training Centre is at Oakville and owned by Canadian Lions Clubs. Watch for this project next year and thanks to anyone who took part or contributed.

At the weekly Monday afternoon euchres at St. Paul's, winners for lone hands were Verna McDonald, Marg McAfee, Roberta Walker, and draw went to Jayne Longfield.

A weekend guest of Florence Robinson was her son Bradley of Toronto.

Nellie King had 16 relatives at her home for a family get-together on August 21 and a great time was had by all.

Birthday people at Hyland Crest for next month are Isabella Eastman on September 9, Mary Currah on September 18, Ann Collison on September 20, Cora Upton on September 22, and Garnet Ash on September 14. Good wishes to all on their special day.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Shirley Stamp, Morley Johnson, and Maureen Boekstyn (President of Minden Lioness Club).

The Minden Legion Senior Club had its weekly afternoon euchre on August 24, with Marg McAfee winning most lone hands, as well as Marie Dennie and Jayne Longfield.

Made another mistake — it was Decoration Day at Gelert Cemetery recently; sorry about that.

The Stanhope Tuesday Bridge Group enjoyed another great day with eight tables of social bridge. The winners were Chuck Watters, Lyle Lucas and John Klok. The male trio were closely scored, but way ahead of the pack. Anyone is welcome every Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Stanhope Community Centre.

Club 35 euchre winners for August 23 were: 50-50, Mary Schad; most lone hands, Pat Scadden; high lady, Floris Krezie; high man, Ken Wallace; others were Eleanor Smith, Harold Smith, and Kay Stephen.

Please remember our bake sale on September 4 at 10 a.m. at Club 35.

Carol Precor from Whitby and Jason Precor and a friend from Oshawa have had a great holiday at their summer home.

Jacky McElwain of Bowmanville and Debbie McElwain of Lindsay visited one day last week with Dorothy McElwain.

One day recently, Lisa Heels and children and friend Rose and children of Port McNichol had a great time visiting Audrey and Bob Vick.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Corneil and Bryan of Lindsay enjoyed lunch with Celia Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Barker and girls of Willow Beach were visiting with Bessie Burk one day recently.

All good wishes to these people: John Francis, Bob Vick, Helen Johnson, Harry Earle, Horrie Baker and Gladys Wruth.

Betty and Gerald Hicks are home after spending their holiday last week at Port Elgin.

The Kinmount Fair is coming soon, and on September 4 the Kinmount Legion is having a dance from 9-1 with d.j. Bruce Newman, followed by a light lunch.

The Minden County Town Museum Committee is grateful to Carol Miles, who has been the co-ordinator for the past three summers. We will miss you, but thanks for all your extra help at all special events.

PUBLIC INFORMATION SESSION NO. 2 SEPTEMBER 3, 1993

The Municipality of Dysart et al is planning the above-mentioned project, pursuant to the Environmental Assessment Act.

The purpose of the sewage treatment plant expansion is to meet the sewage treatment requirements for the projected future growth of the Hamlet of Haliburton and the proposed extension of the sanitary sewer system along the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog. A public information session will be held from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. on September 3, 1993 at the Community Centre regarding the above-mentioned project, to be carried out in accordance with the requirements of the Class Environmental Assessment for Municipal Sewage Projects. A formal presentation on the project status, progress and schedule will take place at 7:30 p.m. Representatives of the project team will be available to answer any question on the project.

For further information, contact:

Municipality of Dysart et al
Maple Avenue
Haliburton, Ontario K0M 1S0
Phone: (705) 457-1740
(Office Hours Monday to Friday - 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.)

It is the intent to prepare a final ESR/Addendum report which would be made available at the Municipal Office for a 30-day public review period. At that time, any person/party may request that the Minister of Environment and Energy "bump-up" this project to an individual environmental assessment. If there are no objections to the ESR/Addendum, the project will proceed.

IN MEMORIAM

HOGG: In loving memory of a dear sister Waneeta, who passed away September 9, 1992. Often our thoughts do wander, To the grave not far away, Where we laid our dear sister Just one year ago today. Sadly missed and always remembered by Wanda and Carla.

MISCIO: Bernice and Alfred - Bernice July 16, 1989 and Alfred, September 2, 1989. In loving memory of Dad and Mom. God broke all our hearts to prove to us

He only takes the best
And the best parents he did take from us

Just 4 years ago since that sad day

When the ones we loved were taken away;
God took them home, it was his will,

But in our hearts they will always be.

They were always there to guide you along

They were always there when you needed them

You could talk to them about anything.

What we would give if we could say

Hello Dad and Mom in the same old way;

To hear your voices; see your smiles,

To sit with you and chat awhile. Nothing can be more precious

Than the memories we have of you both.

To us you were so special
God must have thought so too.

Your last parting wishes
We would like to have heard,

And whispered in your ears
We Love and will miss you both

More than words can ever say.
Our last parting words Dad and Mom

Wherever your spirits have taken you,

We wish you both peace and happiness together

And when old times we do recall, it's then we miss you most of all

In each one of us there is a part of you both

That no one can ever take from us.

We will Love and Miss you both.

Always in our hearts, Mike, Waneeta, Tereasa, June, Tony, Dona and spouses and grandchildren.
